Effective Practice

Simple Techniques To Help Your Young Musician Build Strong Practice Habits

SAVE MY SEAT

Are You Unsure How To Help Your Child Succeed In Their Musical Journey?

In this workshop, you'll go from feeling unsure how to help your child make musical progress and stay consistent in their practice to feeling confident in knowing how to support them with practice strategies and tips that will help them grow

You will learn:

- 4 steps to help your child build a steady practice routine
- 5 Top Practice Strategies to help your child grow
- How to foster a growth mindset

Does This Sound Familiar?

- ➔ You feel like you've tried everything to help your child practice consistently, but it's still a challenge.
- ➔ You know that your child's music practice is important, but they have so much academic work and activities and you're really not sure they could commit to practicing on a regular basis
- ➔ Your child has tried to practice and you've tried to encourage them, but they end up frustrated and discouraged so you don't want to push too hard

Transform your child's practice!

"My son was positively impacted because he had the opportunity to play with other students under the instruction of an excellent teacher.

He looked forward to going each day.

My son learned how to play three new songs in the span of eight days. The workshop reinforced his timing skills.

I would say Mr. Przybylowski is a gifted teacher and musician. He motivates students to do their best and the kids sound great!"

A NOTE FROM...

Mark

As teachers and parents, we know the value of playing music and understand the multitude of ways it builds positive character traits in our children like dedication, focus, expression, teamwork, and so much more.

But helping students to practice regularly is challenging.

As a teacher, I've seen the challenges my students face in practicing consistently amidst a busy schedule and other activities. Additionally, I've seen them spin their wheels practicing with ineffective habits that don't propel them forward.

I want to help parents support their children in building strong practice habits that will move their music forward.

If you are a student, I want to help you learn effective practice strategies that you can use today to keep getting better!
